

Angela Love, PhD

Founder of the Daymark Group, Angela Love has decades of experience in Fortune 500 corporation management, consulting, and coaching. As a trusted advisor, leadership development expert, and executive coach to leaders and boards, Angela works with clients to maximize effectiveness in areas such as leadership, change management, communication, and high-performance team development. Her client list includes Microsoft, Citrix, Johnson & Johnson, Tyco, Trinity Health, Humana, GlaxoSmithKline, Raymond James Financial Services, Carnival Corp, Nordstrom, FEDEX, Burger King, and the Discovery Channel.

During her previous career at AT&T and then Marquette Medical/GE, Angela gained intensive experience in the areas of operations, team-based management, global business account management, marketing, and information technology systems. Her global management experience provides her with in-depth knowledge of diverse industry business operations with an understanding of key organizational and leadership development principles. Angela served as Chairman of the NASA and Florida State Technological Research Authority business outreach program for two years.

Angela is a Founding Fellow of the Institute for Coaching Professional Association at McLean Hospital, a Harvard Medical School affiliate and a member of the National Association of Corporate Directors. Her doctoral research on mindfulness informs the cognitive and stress mitigation strategies she often employs working with leaders who struggle to navigate intense competition and demand for results while maintaining the personal capacity and balance to lead. Her co-authored article related to her research and work with Microsoft executives is published in the NeuroLeadership Handbook.

Angela holds a PhD in Industrial/Organizational Psychology and an M.S. in Counseling. She is a member of the National Association of Corporate Directors, Society for Industrial Organizational Psychology and the American Psychological Association.

Join me on LinkedIn.